

I strongly support the right of XM as well as other radio and tv stations to provide weather and traffic information on a regular basis. There is a strong tradition in most metropolitan areas in the US that citizens benefit when there are multiple sources of weather and traffic information.

There is no reason to single out a particular source and deny them the opportunity to provide this information.

I urge the FCC to provide XM with the same rights exercised by others in the media with regard to providing these services.
